Biological Incidents Awareness: Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) (AWR-324)

LSU NCBRT/Academy of Counter-Terrorist Education provides Department of Homeland Security (DHS) certified courses, taught by expert instructors, and will deliver all course materials to your training facility at no-cost to your agency.

Course Summary
Biological Incidents Awareness: Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) provides a brief overview of the novel Coronavirus, COVID-19, including specific information about symptoms, transmission, personal protective measures, and scene control. This awareness-level course will prepare participants to recognize a potential COVID-19 infection, to know how to protect themselves during response, and to identify outside factors, including scene control and public messaging, which will require their attention.

It is a one-day course designed to be taught by a combination of medical or public health personnel and emergency responders. The course addresses the following topics:

• Disease types and outbreak history
• Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19)
• Prevention and Universal Precaution
• Personal Protection
• Self-Decontamination
• Containment and Scene Control

Target Audience
The primary audience for this course includes responders who need general knowledge about COVID-19 and the protective measures and equipment that will help guard against further spread of the disease.

This course is also appropriate for public officials, city leadership, transportation workers and managers, educators, school leaders, prosecutors, sanitation supervisors, public works personnel, business representatives, shopping center officers, security guards, large companies, school nurses, utilities personnel, health care professionals, and individuals in other civic roles.
